Wallet Shortlist

The same one-page comparison cheat-sheet we'd hand a friend who is torn between two XRP wallets. Skim the table, pick the row that matches you, and skip the rest.

Our shortlist at a glance

Wallet	Type	Price	Best for
Xaman (XUMM)	Software	Free	Daily XRPL use — DEX, AMM, NFTs, xApps
Ledger Nano X	Hardware (USB)	$149	Cold storage of larger holdings, multi-chain
Trezor Safe 3	Hardware (USB)	$79	Affordable hardware with open-source firmware
Tangem	Hardware (NFC)	$54.90	Pocket-sized cold storage with no seed phrase
ELLIPAL Titan	Hardware (QR)	$169	Maximum-paranoia air-gapped storage
Crossmark	Browser ext.	Free	Desktop dApp use, MetaMask-style UX

How to read this list

- Active XRPL user? Start with Xaman. It's free and unmatched on DEX, AMM, NFT, and xApp coverage.
- Holding more than you can afford to lose? Add a hardware wallet for cold storage. Ledger or Trezor for the classic USB experience, Tangem for the smallest form factor, ELLIPAL if you want zero connectivity at all.
- Power users do both: software wallet for activity, hardware wallet for the bulk of the bag.

Two-minute decision rules

- 1 If you only own a small starter position, a software wallet is fine — Xaman is our pick.
- 2 The moment your XRP is worth more than your phone, get a hardware wallet. Don't wait.
- 3 Buy hardware only from the manufacturer's official store. Never from Amazon or a marketplace reseller.
- 4 Write the seed phrase on paper. Store it offline. Never type it into any computer or take a photo of it.
- 5 Send a small test transaction (1 XRP) before moving any larger amount.
